Description:

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for riding my horse in the bush with like minded people, for pleasure, exercise (me and my horse) and a little adventure. I am a city girl but have ridden including horse trekked all over the world as well as Australia most of my life. At last I own my own horse and am just getting him, and myself bush ready. So I would ask when planning for the central west areas to make provision for horses and riders. I live in central Melbourne, I drive to my horse who is agisted near Tullarmarine then drive him to places to ride in the bush hoping for a safe place to park and unload, to ride with friends, to stop and rest and drink and eat and ride again back to my car and float and drive us home. I am also an architect with considerable urban planning experience and am acutely aware that planners are seen as out of touch with rural pursuits so I would plead for decisions made in full knowledge and experience of those lives who are affected by the decisions.
