Title: MrFirst Name: DanielLast Name: Rhone

Description:

I have spent a large portion of my life im the Australian bush. I Hunt, fish, ride dirtbikes, 4wd and camp and always involve and teach my children in the hope of preserving this resource for generations to come. people like me clean up the rubbish and stop the invasive species from killing all the native wildlife (which is now much more under threat due to innercity trendies who make laws with no understanding how it will actually effect the bush) again with the intention of saving it. You people are far to quick to make decisions that effect the rest of us thinking that you helping but in actuality you have just sentenced the bush to death. When there is no one around to see whats happening i guarantee that there will be people still out there and without the hunters many many native animals only found here will die. Its been proven that locking up the bush does not help why are you so convinced that you are doing the right thing.
