Extent of disturbance that is evident from aerial photographs & satellite images

Public land

NOTE: Disturbance may be a result of grazing, clearing, timber-getting and/or altered water regimes. In some cases, such as west of the Mallee, disturbance from grazing is continuing. In others, such as in the Wimmera National Park, disturbance from grazing is historical — although here an altered water regime is also having an effect. Most small blocks of public land are disturbed to some degree.
